Email CORRESPONDENCE

Email is a powerful tool in the hands of a knowledgeable job-seeker. Use it wisely and you will shine. Use it improperly and you’ll brand yourself as immature and unprofessional.

Email is often the preferred method of communication between job-seeker and employer. There are general guidelines that should be followed when emailing cover letters, thank-you notes and replies to various requests for information.

---

Email Subject

Use a meaningful subject header—one that is appropriate to the topic.

Titles

Address the recipient as Mr., Ms., or Mrs. and always verify the correct spelling of the recipient’s name.

If the person uses initials such as J.A. Smith and you are not certain of the individual’s gender, then begin the email: “Dear J.A. Smith.”

Content

- Be brief. Don’t overload the employer with lots of questions in your email.
- Save the emoji for the friends and family.
- Do not use strange fonts, wallpapers or multicolored backgrounds. Stick to standards like Times New Roman, 12-point or Helvetica, 10 point.
- Avoid using slang.

Signature

Sign using your full name. Make sure any social networks mentioned in your (optional) signature block have been reviewed, deemed safe for work and useful to your professional brand. Also remove all irrelevant quotes, links and images.

---

Thank-you Notes

If you’ve had an interview with a prospective employer, a thank-you note is a good way to express your appreciation. The note can be emailed a day or two after your interview and only needs to be a few sentences long. See the above example.

New Message

To           John Doe <jdoe@xyzcorp.net>
From      Jane Smith <smith_jane@terpmail.umd.edu>
Subject  Thank you!

Dear Mrs. Jones:

I just wanted to send a quick note to thank you for yesterday’s interview. The position we discussed is exactly what I’ve been looking for, and I feel that I will be able to make a positive contribution to your organization. I appreciate the opportunity to be considered for employment at XYZ Corporation. Please don’t hesitate to contact me if you need further information.

Sincerely,

Jane Smith

Last Chance

ALWAYS proofread and spell-check before sending. Your emails say far more about you than you might realize. If you are sloppy and careless, a seemingly trivial communication will stick out like a sore thumb.
